

WINNER

of the Edoardo Benvenuto Prize 2019 (12th edition)

Barbara Berger

for her dissertation “Der Gasbehälter als Bautypus” – PhD Thesis at the TU München, delivered in December 2017, published by the TUM University Press, München.

Jury:

Prof. Patricia Radelet-de Grave (Université catholique de Louvain)

Prof. Santiago Huerta (Universidad Politécnica de Madrid)

Prof. Arch. Massimo Corradi (Università degli studi di Genova)

Final Judgment of the Jury

The contributions of all participants are of high quality, but the most deserving work is the one of Barbara Berger, according to the following ranking:

1. Barbara Berger
2. Gianluca Capurso

The Edoardo Benvenuto Prize 2019 is awarded to Barbara Berger for his dissertation “Der Gasbehälter als Bautypus” – PhD Thesis at the TU München, delivered in December 2017, published by the TUM University Press, München.

A special mention is proposed for the work of:

Gianluca Capurso: “Struttura e architettura - Indagini sul dopoguerra italiano” , draft volume currently being published by Gangemi publisher.